

- Allure Systems combines advanced virtualization and computer vision technologies to create stunning on-figure images for fashion retailers. Each final image is a composite of a virtualized model and a garment photograph, and is indistinguishable from a single, traditionally-shot image. Any of your models can appear to be wearing any of your clothes, but no longer need to be physically present at photo shoots. In fact, only stylists and garments are required to create new product images in an Allure solution
